

Electronics Landfill Ban – Protecting Our Water Resources

FREE Electronics Recycling for City of Milwaukee Residents

Wisconsin's new electronics recycling law bans many types of consumer electronics from landfills. Milwaukee residents may recycle electronics at no charge at the City's Self-Help Centers. For more information, visit the DPW website.

Electronics, which are the fastest growing segment of the municipal solid waste stream, may contain hazardous materials including lead, cadmium, and mercury. Keeping electronics out of landfills reduces negative impacts to both environmental and human health by avoiding the potential pollution of ground, air and water resources.
